ABSTRACT

*This research is entitled The Implementation of Good Governance Principles in Village Fund Management in Teluk Bakung Village, Tanjung Pura Sub-district, Langkat Regency, North Sumatra Province (A Study of Bronislaw Malinowski's Structural Functionalism). The study aims to examine how the principles of Good Governance are implemented in the management of village funds and how these practices relate to the theory of Structural Functionalism. Data were collected through observation, in-depth interviews, and documentation involving village officials and community members. The subjects of this study include the Village Head, Secretary, Treasurer, and several local community figures of Teluk Bakung. This research employs a qualitative method with a descriptive approach. The findings reveal that the implementation of Good Governance principles is not yet optimal, especially in terms of transparency and accountability. However, community participation has started to emerge in several village programs. Bronislaw Malinowski's Structural Functionalism theory helps explain how the existing social and cultural systems function to maintain the continuity of village governance.*
