This study aims to determine the effect of the Price Earning Ratio (PER) and Price To Book Value (PBV) on share prices with Earning Per Share (EPS) as a moderating variable (in companies indexed LQ45 on the Indonesian Stock Exchange). This research uses a quantitative type of research. The total population was 45 companies, after carrying out the purposive sampling technique, 31 companies were obtained with a range of observation years from 2020-2022, so the total number of observation data was 93 data. The method used in this research is Panel Data Regression Analysis. As dependent variables in this research, price earnings ratio, price to book value, and share price are independent variables, as well as earnings per share as a moderating variable. The results of this research are that partially the price earnings ratio has no significant effect on stock prices and price to book value has a significant effect on stock prices. And earnings per share as a moderating variable is able to strengthen the relationship between price earnings ratio and share price, and earnings per share is not able to moderate the relationship between price to book value and share price.
