Title : The Influence of Fashion Involvement, Shopping Lifestyle and Hedonic Shopping Value on Impulse Buying of Fashion Products at Toko Kabeh Sablon

The fashion business is one of the fastest-growing sectors in a relatively short time. Consequently, it requires the right strategies and fashion business professionals must understand how consumers make purchases, attract consumer interest, and compete amidst the booming fashion industry. This study aims to determine how fashion involvement, shopping lifestyle, and hedonic shopping value can encourage consumers to impulse buying of fashion products at the Kabeh Sablon store, thereby increasing overall sales. This research was conducted on consumers who had previously purchased at the Kabeh Sablon store. The author employed a quantitative analysis research method. The research sample was obtained using the purposive sampling technique, with 116 respondents. Data were collected by distributing questionnaires directly to consumers and were subsequently analyzed using multiple linear regression analysis with SPSS software version 26. The results showed that fashion involvement significantly affected impulse buying, shopping lifestyle significantly affected impulse buying, and hedonic shopping value affected impulse buying of fashion products at the Kabeh Sablon store. Furthermore, the results indicated that fashion involvement, shopping lifestyle, and hedonic shopping value had a simultaneous effect on impulse buying of fashion products at the Kabeh Sablon store. It explains that each variable studied can be a driving factor for impulse buying.
